

HIA

Hemispheric Institute
on the Americas

Book Reading with Author:
*Chiapas Maya Awakening:
Contemporary Poems and Short Stories*

*Wednesday
May 17, 2017
12pm to 1:30pm
3114 Hart Hall*

*Free and open to the public
Followed by a book signing with the author*

 hia.ucdavis.edu

 facebook.com/ucdavishia

Sean Sell is a Ph.D. student in the Comparative Literature department at UC Davis. He traveled to Chiapas to study the Tsotsil language and to translate literature by contemporary indigenous writers from Chiapas. This book is one of the collections he has translated.

Inés Hernández-Avila (Nez Perce, enrolled on the Colville Reservation, Washington, and Tejana) is a professor of Native American Studies at UC Davis and one of the six founders of the Native American and Indigenous Studies Association (NAISA). Her work has centered on Indigenous literatures and memory across the Americas. She has written the introduction to Chiapas Maya Awakening.